A co-founder isn't required. Here is how to decide on when to add one. A co-founder is not a requirement. It's a strategic choice. Some ventures thrive with solo founders. Some require complementary skills. What matters is clarity, not convention. A bad co-founder match destroys startups far faster than building alone.

2. “What skills are essential for my venture to succeed?”
3. “Can I build early traction as a solo founder?”
4. “What are the risks of adding a co-founder too early?”
5. “How can 1Mby1M support me if I choose to stay solo?”
6. “What does it cost to join 1Mby1M? How much equity do they charge?”
